

Continuing Professional Development for Building Professionals

Programming - A Tool for Successful Construction

CPD - 10 March 2010, 4.45pm registration for 5pm start

The Committee of the Western Australia Chapter of the Australian Institute of Building (AIB) is pleased to present a Continued Professional Development (CPD) event on Programming, the presenter will be Dick Kolagow of Kolagow & Associates Construction Planners.

Dick Kolagow has been involved in Construction Programming since 1975, in 1980 he commenced his practice as Kolagow and Associates Construction Planners. Dick has been involved in the programming and planning of many high profile projects in Western Australia and overseas. His practical knowledge and years of local experience has seen the practice grow to be continually engaged to provide a service to many major building clients and contractors in Western Australia.

Projects have ranged from luxury homes to resorts ,hospitals ,schools, high rise offices and apartments and resource projects.Dick is often called on to provide programming advice on alternative construction techniques where contractors and clients can gain a competitive edge.

Successful programming provides a tool for efficient construction and to often many projects go off the rails because simple rules are not followed.
