

Join the NBPR and be recognised as a building professional

Application is open to any building practitioner whether they are a member of the AIB or not!

- The National Building Professionals Register (NBPR) is the building industry's national directory of building professionals
- It is recognised and endorsed by construction industry bodies, government authorities and the public
- It crosses all borders of State building regulations and licensing to provide consumer groups and industry with a nationally recognised register of building professionals

Benefits of being a registrant

Be recognised as a building professional: NBPR accreditation is an industry recognised register of qualified and skilled building professionals. Optimise your personal and/or corporate wealth and success through the recognition of your skills and level of expertise.

Continued Professional Development (CPD) compliance: NBPR programs keep you up to date on all developments within the industry through the delivery of regular CPD seminars. Your clients can be guaranteed of your compliance to current industry standards and technology.

Central reference point for industry, government and consumer groups: Easy access to the NBPR registry via <http://www.nbpr.com.au> allows industry, government and consumer groups to search for registrants within specific building professions and categories.

How to Join

Obtain the application form from <http://www.nbpr.com.au> complete and return it to the address below with all required attachments. Additional information can be found on the website.

Contact Us

For further information on the NBPR, to obtain an NBPR manual or seek assistance with completing an application form please contact:

The Registrar
National Building Professionals Register
GPO Box 1467
CANBERRA ACT 2601

Phone: 02 6247 7433
Fax: 02 6248 9030
Email: registrar@nbpr.com.au
Web: www.nbpr.com.au